Juvenile Justice: Sexting, Young People and the Law

Monday 26th February 2018
09:45 – 17:15

Academic Conference Room, 11/F
Cheng Yu Tung Tower, Centennial Campus
The University of Hong Kong

The University of Hong Kong Faculty of Law is pleased to announce the Executive Course on Juvenile Justice: Sexting, Young People and the Law. The Course will comprise of one day of intensive interactive workshops (for a total of 5.5 hours). It will take as its focus the recent phenomenon of sexting, addressing young people's perceptions and practices, what legal responses there have been to sexting and what legal and non-legal responses are appropriate. In doing so it will examine some of the fundamental issues at the core of juvenile justice and the criminalisation of young people's behaviour, for example, the age of criminal responsibility, the presumption of doli incapax and the aims of the juvenile justice system. Attendees will receive a certificate upon completion of the course.

The course will be led by Professor Thomas Crofts, Professor of Criminal Law at The University of Sydney. Thomas is currently a Visiting Professor at HKU. He is a graduate of University College London (LLB (Hons)), the Bayerische Julius-Maximilians-University Würzburg, Germany (LLM) and the European University Viadrina in Frankfurt/O., Germany (Dr iur). His research in criminal law, criminology and criminal justice centres on criminalisation and criminal responsibility with a particular focus on the criminal responsibility of, and for, children, comparative criminal law and criminal law reform.
