Core Staff

Associate Professor Kelley Loper has been the Director of CCPL since July 2017. She is also the Co-Director of the LLM in Human Rights Programme, and Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Asia-Pacific Journal on Human Rights and the Law. She has published extensively on refugee protection in Asia, the rights of persons with disabilities, sexual orientation and gender identity discrimination in Hong Kong, and the implementation of international human rights law in domestic contexts. She has served on the boards or advisory committees of several non-profit organizations including the Hong Kong Refugee Advice Centre (as past Chairperson), Justice Centre Hong Kong, and Amnesty International (Hong Kong). She has also advised other international and local organizations including the UNHCR, UN Women, and the Hong Kong Human Rights Monitor on a range of human rights issues.
Lecturer Lindsay Ernst is the Associate Director of the Centre for Comparative and Public Law. Lindsay specializes in developing interdisciplinary experiential learning opportunities focused on advancing social justice and human rights. Prior to joining the University of Hong Kong as a researcher and part-time lecturer in 2012, Lindsay was the Head of Clinical Programmes at the Justice Centre Hong Kong (formerly the Hong Kong Refugee Advice Centre) where she designed and launched the Refugee Legal Assistance Clinic in collaboration with the University of Hong Kong, Chinese University of Hong Kong, Brooklyn Law School and the University of New South Wales. Prior to moving to Hong Kong in 2007, Lindsay was a Skadden Fellow with the Juvenile Rights Division of the Legal Aid Society of New York City, and an Adjunct Professor at Fordham University School of Law. She has also served as a law clerk with the King’s County Family Court in New York and the Public Defender Service in Washington DC. Her areas of interest include community legal education and empowerment, migration, children’s rights, disability rights, clinical legal education.

Assistant Professor Dr Alex Schwartz is the Deputy Director of the Centre for Comparative and Public Law. Dr. Schwartz joined the Faculty of Law in July of 2017. His research is focused on courts and judicial behaviour, particularly in the context of deeply divided, transitional, and crisis-prone politics. He was previously Lecturer in Law at Queen’s University Belfast, where he was also an Associate Fellow of the Senator George J. Mitchell Institute for Global Peace, Security and Justice. Before that, Dr. Schwartz was a Banting Fellow with the Department of Political Studies at Queen’s University (Canada), a visiting scholar at the Centre for the Study of Social Justice at Oxford, and a postdoctoral fellow with the Canada Research Chair in Quebec and Canadian Studies at L’Université du Québec à Montréal. Dr. Schwartz is currently working towards a book on judicial power in ‘difficult’ contexts.

Elizabeth Lui is the Assistant Research Officer of the Centre for Comparative and Public Law. Elizabeth previously worked at Amnesty International Hong Kong as the Human Rights Education Officer, and currently stays at AIHK’s LGBTI Group as a volunteer. She earned her Master’s Degree in Comparative Social Policy at Oxford University, and Bachelor’s Degree in Government and Public Administration at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. Her research interests include sexual orientation/ gender identity/ expression/ sex characteristics, people on the move and artificial intelligence/ machine learning.

Lili Ullmann was the Assistant Research Officer for Human Rights at the Centre for Comparative and Public Law and the Master of Laws in Human Rights Programme (until February 2019). Prior to joining Hong Kong University, Lili was a junior lawyer at the Court of Appeal in Berlin, the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development, and the German Consulate General in Hong Kong. She studied law at Humboldt University, Berlin, and Queen Mary University, London, before completing her LL.M. in International Human Rights, Refugee and Climate Change Law at the University of Warwick, where she subsequently stayed on as a tutor. Parallel to her studies, Lili was a research assistant at the Konrad-Adenauer-Foundation and the Coventry Law Centre Refugee and Asylum team, as well as a member of the European Youth Parliament (EYP).
Lydia Choi was appointed Assistant Research Officer in Human Rights for the LLM in Human Rights Programme in February 2019. Lydia is an alumna of the Programme and joined the Centre for Comparative and Public Law as a Research Assistant in November 2018. She is now mainly responsible for supporting the development of the Programme and coordinating the Faculty of Law’s human rights activities and events. Prior to joining the University of Hong Kong, Lydia worked at the Law Society of Hong Kong and the Education University of Hong Kong as a research associate after obtaining her law degree at the University of Leicester in 2016, where she was also a legal researcher for its Pro Bono Team. She also took part in the Rule of Law Education Project during her LLM studies. Her research interests include constitutionalism and the rule of law, civil and political rights, NGOs and social movements in Hong Kong.

Winnie Law is the Executive Secretary for CCPL. She manages the administration of CCPL in respect of all its activities, events and projects. She oversees a small team of part time staff as well as student research assistants and volunteers who assist with CCPL event organisation and research related activities. Her duties include event management and support for CCPL’s conferences and seminars, administration related to grant management, and logistical support for receiving the Centre’s visitors, etc.

Overview

The Centre for Comparative and Public Law (CCPL) was established in 1995 as a virtual centre within the Faculty of Law. Its goals are to: (1) advance knowledge on public law and human rights issues primarily from the perspective of international and comparative law and practice; (2) encourage and facilitate collaborative work within the Faculty, the University, and the broader Hong Kong community in the fields of comparative and public law; and (3) make the law more accessible to the community and more effective as an agent of social change. To advance these goals, the Centre has continued to actively engage with global, regional and local academics, practitioners, government bodies, and civil society organizations.

In the past year, in order to highlight and build on the Centre’s core strengths and the expertise of its affiliated researchers, CCPL has identified, within its broader themes, five areas of focus: (1) Judicial Studies; (2) Migration; (3) Equality and Non-discrimination; (4) Public Law and Governance; and (5) Empirical Legal Research. These groupings have facilitated collaborative and interdisciplinary research, knowledge exchange, and teaching and learning activities on a range of current public law issues. This report provides more detail about CCPL’s achievements during the reporting period from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019.

Research and Events

The Centre has supported rigorous, high quality research output published in academic and professional journals and books. CCPL-affiliated researchers are renowned for their expertise in a number of areas

1 The Centre’s broader themes are: Comparative Public Policy, Comparative Human Rights, Constitutional Societies, and International Law in the Domestic Order.
including the one country two systems framework in Hong Kong, courts and judges, comparative constitutional law, constitutionalism in Asia, the rights of marginalized communities, and the implementation of international human rights law in domestic contexts. CCPL scholars continue to attract substantial local and international funding. The Centre “houses” and provides administrative support for these projects by managing the use of research funds, hosting related conferences and other events, and helping disseminate research results in other ways.

During the reporting period, CCPL housed 25 research projects funded by internal and external competitive grants, including the Research Grant Council’s General Research Fund (GRF), the Hong Kong Equal Opportunities Commission, HKU’s Global Partnership Seed Fund, the HKU Knowledge Exchange Office, the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs, the Association of Commonwealth Universities, the US Consulate General in Hong Kong and Macau, and Plan International Hong Kong. CCPL was also commissioned to conduct contract research and develop training materials and workshops. The total funding managed by the Centre this year was HK$5,010,637. These projects have produced several new publications (Appendix 3 of this Report).

From July 2018 to June 2019, CCPL organised 39 events, including 7 major international conferences on a range of subjects including gender and constitutionalism, proportionality in Asia, torture and rehabilitation, combating violence against children, marriage equality in Asia, and safeguarding the rights of torture survivors. Other events have considered recent court decisions on the rights of sexual/gender minorities; the extradition bill proposed by the Hong Kong SAR Government; judicial reforms in China; populism and its implications on the rule of law around the world; the protection of refugees in Asia; hate speech regulation in the European Union; and wildlife trade in Hong Kong and beyond. Participants have included leading experts, scholars, practitioners and activists from around the world. CCPL, along with the Human Rights Hub, has also hosted a Human Rights Seminars Series, which featured lunchtime talks on topics such as racial discrimination, statelessness, the right to asylum, violence against children and the rights of persons with disabilities. Most events have been made publicly available on the CCPL YouTube channel (see below).

CCPL has continued the work of the Judicial Studies Programme (JSP), first launched in 2015, within the Judicial Studies focus area. It held its first collaborative event with Shanghai University of Political Science and Law in December 2018 and the next JSP transnational judicial round-table is planned for 2020. Future JSP activities will also include: 1) regular transnational judicial round-tables; 2) occasional CCPL public lectures by eminent jurists; and 3) for the benefit of HKU students, occasional taught ‘masterclasses’ with eminent jurists. More generally, the JSP will foster multiple fora for knowledge exchange between judges, lawyers and academics to address the problems facing judiciaries today (especially in the Asia Pacific) and share views on how those problems might best be resolved in a cost-effective and timely manner and in the interests of justice.

Knowledge Exchange

CCPL has continued to actively disseminate research output and share faculty expertise beyond the academic community through events, online resources, capacity building workshops, and submissions to policy-making bodies. In doing so, it has built a strong network of individuals and organizations involved in public law work including legal practitioners, government officials, legislators, members of the judiciary, international and local human rights organizations, and students and alumni of the Master of Laws in Human Rights Programme. The Centre’s research has generated discussions across stakeholder groups (governmental and non-governmental) and led to law reform proposals and debates in a variety of areas within the Centre’s remit. Increasingly, the Centre has creatively used technology to develop case and treaty databases, websites such as the Disability Rights Resource Network and the Human Rights Hub (funded by HKU Knowledge Exchange Impact grants), a YouTube channel, infographics, and a presence on social media platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and LinkedIn to reach a broader audience.

Centre members have regularly made submissions to international and local bodies on public law issues. For example, CCPL’s former Director, Puja Kapai, made a deputation to the Legislative Council’s Panel on Constitutional Affairs commenting on Hong Kong’s report to the UN Committee on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination (CERD Committee) under the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination. CCPL also submitted an alternative report to the CERD Committee in July 2018. Centre Director, Kelley Loper, and former Director, Puja Kapai, both made deputations to the Legislative Council as part of the follow-up to this reporting process in November 2018.

Teaching and Learning

In addition to research and knowledge exchange impact, CCPL has contributed to curriculum development and supported teaching and learning. The Centre regularly involves students in its projects, providing experiential learning opportunities and mentorship. For example, students enrolled in the Human Rights in Practice course in the Faculty of Law have developed training manuals and conducted workshops for human rights-advocates. CCPL’s alternative report to the CERD Committee was based on research conducted by students in the Faculty’s Equality and Non-discrimination course in the spring semester of 2018.

YouTube Channel
The Centre reaches a broad audience by uploading videos of most of its conferences and seminars on its YouTube Channel. Enhancements have been made to the individual events pages on the CCPL website so visitors are able to view and download PowerPoint slides, papers, and other relevant materials. At the end of the reporting period, CCPL’s YouTube Channel had 213 subscribers.

Fellows

Fellows are full-time researchers and teachers in the Faculty of Law at the University of Hong Kong with demonstrated expertise in the fields of comparative and public law; whose work aligns with the broader aims of the Centre and its particular areas of focus; and who actively contribute to CCPL activities.

For a complete list of Fellows, see Appendix 2.

Visiting Fellows

Visiting Fellows are external scholars (including those pursuing research postgraduate degrees) who visit CCPL to conduct research, present at events, and participate in other significant ways for a fixed period of time, typically ranging from one to six months. They are self-funded, although the Centre generally provides desk space, library access, and access to the CCPL and Faculty facilities and networks.

Visiting Fellows during the reporting period included the following scholars:

Dr. Jen Hendry is an Associate Professor in Law and Social Justice at the University of Leeds School of Law, and a graduate of the Universities of Glasgow (LLB Hons 2002) and Edinburgh (LLM 2003), and the European University Institute (PhD 2009). She researches in the fields of social and legal theory, socio-legal studies, and comparative legal studies, and is currently writing on issues of indigenous justice and legal pluralism. Jen is Director of the School’s Centre for Law and Social Justice, Vice-Chair of the Socio-Legal Studies Association (SLSA), and member of the ESRC peer review college.

Visiting Period: 14 January 2019 – 30 June 2019

Dr. Mara Malagodi, is a Professor at the City University Law School in London where she convenes the LLM course in Comparative Constitutional Law. Mara also teaches Constitutional & Administrative Law, Legal Method, and Public Law. Mara is a comparative constitutional lawyer with a linguistically-informed specialism in South Asian law and politics (in particular Nepal, India, and Pakistan), human rights law, and legal history. Her publications include Constitutional Nationalism and Legal Exclusion: Equality, Identity Politics, and Democracy in Nepal (1990-2007) (Oxford University Press).

Visiting Period: 1 January 2019 – 30 June 2019

Yan Ho Lai is a Doctoral Candidate in Law at the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London. He was awarded a Bachelor Degree of Social Science in Government and Public Administration at the Chinese University of Hong Kong in 2012. He has been researching and teaching in universities and tertiary education institutions since 2014, after being awarded a degree of Master of Science in Political Sociology at the London School of Economics and Political Science in 2013. He is interested in studying comparative law and politics, law and social movements, legal culture and religious freedom. His current doctoral research evaluates the significance of law schools on the development of the legal profession and the rule of law culture in Hong Kong.

Visiting Period: 15 August 2018 – 14 July 2019

Jian Xu is a PhD candidate in political economy at Emory University. His research focuses on the political and legal risks faced by foreign investors in emerging economies. He is also interested in studying the influence of Chinese investment on the rule of law in Hong Kong, authoritarian judicial politics, and transnational anti-corruption legal regimes such as the FCPA. He received a master’s degree in political science from Duke University, and a Bachelor of Management degree from Zhejiang University. He was a visiting fellow at the Centre for Chinese and Comparative Law at the City University of Hong Kong. He has given presentations to J.P. Morgan Chase’s commercial banking practice regarding insights on China’s political and economic landscape, with audience including senior management, bankers, treasury advisors and international specialists with the commercial bank.

Visiting Period: 20 -24 August 2018

Dr Benedict Coxon is Career Development Fellow in Law at Hertford College, Oxford, where he teaches Constitutional Law and Administrative Law. His primary area of research is statutory interpretation. Dr Coxon’s work covers related public law issues and extends to comparative public law, with a focus on Commonwealth countries. His research while at CCPL focused on common law principles of statutory interpretation that protect human rights and the relationship of these with the Basic Law (and Bill of Rights).

Visiting Period: 30 July – 17 August, 2018
Professor Aeyal Gross is a member of the Faculty in Tel Aviv University’s Faculty of Law where he teaches International Law and Constitutional Law. He holds an LL.B. from Tel Aviv University (1990) and an S.J.D. from Harvard Law School (1996). In 1998 he was awarded the Diploma in Human Rights from the Academy of European Law, European University Institute, in Florence. Professor Gross serves as a member of the Board of the Association for Civil Rights in Israel. He is a founding member of TAU’s LGBT & Queer Studies Forum. He also contributes regularly to the Israeli daily Ha’aretz. See www.aeyalgross.com.

Visiting Period: 25 – 29 June 2018

Public Conferences, Roundtables and Panel Discussions

Most CCPL events are open to the general public and free of charge. Participants at CCPL events come from the academic and legal communities, civil society organisations, government, policy think tanks, advocates and other interested members of the community. The Centre also attracts a wide range of students from across the HKU.

During the reporting period, CCPL held 7 major conferences including:

Conference on Safeguarding Children’s Best Interests: Translating Policies into Local Practices – Combating Violence against Children

8 September 2018

The objectives of the conference were to launch the Child Rights Impact Assessment Framework (“the CRIA Framework”), to assess the state of knowledge and skills required for the implementation of the CRIA Framework as well as to develop interdisciplinary communities of practice to effectively incorporate international best practices in safeguarding children’s rights and interests. Mikiko Otani, member of the UN Committee on the Rights of the Child, Anne-Claire Blok, the Human Rights Advisor of Plan International’s United Nations Office in Geneva and Rasa Sekulovic, the Head of Child Protection and Partnerships of Plan International Asia Regional Office were among the conference’s international speakers.

Proportionality in Asia Conference

10 December 2018

In the 21st century, the Proportionality doctrine – in its varied permutations – has emerged as the most common-place legal doctrine relied upon by judges in rights adjudication. With its genesis in German law, this Proportionality doctrinal device has diffused globally across Europe to the Anglophone nations (e.g. United Kingdom, Australia, Canada, and New Zealand), mixed legal systems that are rooted in the common law (e.g. Israel and South Africa), and even parts of Latin America and Asia. This Conference brought scholars from around the world to examine how the Proportionality doctrine is applied in Asia and how its manifestations in Asia differ from the West.

Programme:

Panel 1: Proportionality in East Asia

Chair & Commentator: Po Jen Yap; Professor, the University of Hong Kong

Proportionality in Asia: Po Jen Yap; Professor, the University of Hong Kong
Proportionality in Hong Kong: Rehan Abeyratne, Assistant Professor, Chinese University of Hong Kong
Proportionality in Taiwan: Chien-Chih Lin, Assistant Research Professor, Academia Sinica
Proportionality in South Korea: Yoon Jin Shin; Assistant Professor, Seoul National University

Proportionality in Japan: Shigenori Matsui; Professor, University of British Columbia

Panel 2: Proportionality in South and South East Asia

Chair & Commentator: Mark Tushnet, William Nelson Cromwell Professor of Law, Harvard Law School

Proportionality in India: Shubhankar Dam; Professor, University of Portsmouth
Proportionality in Bangladesh: Md. Rizwanul Islam; Associate Professor, North South University of Bangladesh
Proportionality in Malaysia: Benjamin Joshua Ong; Lecturer, Singapore Management University
Proportionality in the Philippines: Bryan Dennis Tiojanco (with Ronald San Juan); Postdoctoral Fellow, National University of Singapore

Gender and Constitutionalism in Asia

16-17 January 2019

This conference explored the potential of constitutionalism to affirm and sustain the equal citizenship of women and sexual minorities across the Asian region. Speakers considered ways in which constitutional texts and related doctrines confirm or subvert the pre-existing gender order in several representative case studies. They also reflected on issues such as political equality, same sex marriage, intersex/transgender/third gender identity, reproductive rights, distribution of care roles within the family, freedom from violence, socio-economic rights, women’s constitutional status and legal pluralism, and constitutional responses to intersectionality such as between gender and race/ethnicity and non-citizen women such as refugees and migrant workers. The aim was to understand the legal, societal and political forces shaping the evolution of the law and to draw best practices from a wider pool of jurisdictions.

Wildlife Crime Seminar (2.0): Tipping the Scales against Hong Kong’s Illegal Wildlife Trade

22 January 2019

In 2015, Hong Kong held its first comprehensive seminar on illegal wildlife trade, supported by the ADM Capital Foundation and hosted by the Law Faculty, the University of Hong Kong. This examined Hong Kong’s role as a major conduit for trade in threatened species to China. Expert international and local panellists identified the challenges and opportunities for the city to play a part in the growing international effort to combat wildlife crime.

In 2016, the UNODC responded to mandates from the UN Economic and Social Council and the UN General Assembly to take stock of wildlife crime globally. The result was a bleak picture wherein large volumes of threatened wildlife are being trafficked, by organized criminal syndicates across the globe. At the same time, UNODC provided the international community with insights and means to better understand and address such clandestine markets.
In 2018, the HKSAR took bold steps forward, phasing out the ivory trade, introducing indictable crimes and raising penalties for wildlife trafficking and illegal trade. Soon to be released research has for the first time characterized and provided clearer insights into the transnational, serious, and organised nature of illegal wildlife trafficking, and Hong Kong’s role in this lucrative trade.

Hong Kong’s illegal wildlife trade is large by volume, underestimated, and is contributing to a global extinction crisis. Over the last decade the estimated value of wildlife products seized has increased 1,600%. Wildlife crime in the city however is not treated as a serious crime, despite its social, economic and environmental impacts. There is lack of support to investigate people or materials in connection with organised crime, leaving little capacity to prosecute those behind the networks and syndicates that take advantage of Hong Kong’s position as a major trade hub.

The seminar ‘Tipping the Scales against Hong Kong’s Illegal Wildlife Trade’ aimed to gather data, views and opinions from leading wildlife experts, investigators, government representatives, lawmakers and legal professionals that highlight the urgency and continued need to combat the illegal wildlife trade. In doing so it examined the evolving situation in Hong Kong, as well as the implications of Hong Kong’s recent legislative amendments and what more needs to be done if the city is to respond effectively to its role in the global extinction crisis.

Extradition Law and Human Rights: Does the Hong Kong Government's Bill Provide Sufficient Safeguard for Our Rights?

11 June 2019

The Fugitive Offenders and Mutual Legal Assistance in Criminal Matters Legislation (Amendment) Bill 2019 was scheduled to be placed before the full sitting of the Legislative Council on 12 June 2019. This conference examined whether the Bill contains sufficient safeguards for the rights of people in Hong Kong, as well as other legal issues, drawing on diverse perspectives and the law and practice of extradition in other jurisdictions. Speakers included local, mainland and international experts:

- Prof Johannes Chan SC (Hon), the University of Hong Kong
- Ms Cora Chan, the University of Hong Kong
- Prof Albert Chen, the University of Hong Kong
- Prof Ian Grenville Cross SBS, SC, Honorary Professor of Law, the University of Hong Kong, Honorary Visiting Professor of Law, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, former Director of Public Prosecutions of Hong Kong Special Administrative Region
- Mr Philip Dykes SC, Chairman of Hong Kong Bar Association
- Dr Asad Kiyani, University of Victoria
- Dr Margaret Ng, barrister, former member of the Hong Kong Legislative Council
- Sir Geoffrey Nice QC, international human rights barrister and Chief Prosecutor in trial of Slobodan Milošević (by video-conferencing)
- Mr Mark Summers QC, member of the Bar Human Rights Committee of England & Wales (by video-conferencing)
Marriage Equality Forum

15-16 June 2019

Co-hosted by CCPL and Hong Kong Marriage Equality (HKME) and supported by lead sponsor Hong Kong LGBT+ Attorneys Network and supporting organizations Pink Alliance and WYNG Foundation, the MEF was a free community conference aimed at bringing local activists, academics, practitioners and allies together for a dialogue on how to advance marriage equality in Hong Kong. Guest speakers included, but were not limited to, Dr. Marco Wan, Associate Professor, Faculty of Law, HKU; Tim Parker, Barrister-at-law at Denis Chang’s Chambers; Jimmy Sham, the judicial review applicant in the STK case; and Joseph Cho, a member of Nutong Xueshe.

Apart from local civil society groups and academics, we were privileged to have notable marriage equality activists from Taiwan and the United States joining the conference and sharing their experience. These guests included Evan Wolfson, Founder of Freedom to Marry (FTM); Cameron Tolle, FTM’s Director of Digital Action; Thalia Zepatos, FTM’s Director of Research and Messaging; Jennifer Lu, Coordinator of Marriage Equality Coalition Taiwan; and Victoria Hsu, Founder of Taiwan Alliance to Promote Civil Partnership Rights.

Executive Courses

Over the years, the Centre has run various intensive executive courses for interested members of the general public where renowned academics and practitioners have shared their knowledge and practical experience. In this reporting period, CCPL ran one course on Proportionality in Global Perspective.

Proportionality in Global Perspective

1 February 2019

The Course comprised of one day of intensive interactive workshops (for a total of 5.5 hours). Proportionality is a public law doctrine that establishes whether an act that infringes on human rights is proportionate to the importance of the interests or rights behind the act. As such, proportionality has become immensely influential all over the world, and is arguably the most important and widespread test in constitutional adjudication globally, and even seen as the main sign for the phenomenon of increased convergence and interdependence of constitutional law what is termed global constitutionalism. The course will document the historical origins and spread of proportionality, discuss the different versions of proportionality in different countries, including in Hong Kong, and engage with the main debates and controversies that surround this doctrine.

The course was led by Professor Iddo Porat, Professor of Constitutional Law at the College of Law and Business, Israel. Professor Porat received his LL.B. from the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, magna cum laude (joint program with the Department of Philosophy), clerked at the Israeli Supreme Court (Justice Dalia Dorner) and received his LLM and JSD from Stanford Law School. Professor Porat was a visiting professor at San Diego Law School (2008-2009) and a Senior Fellow at the Center for Comparative Constitutional Studies at Melbourne Law School (2017-2018). Professor Porat’s areas of research are constitutional law, comparative constitutional law, and legal theory, and he specializes in the doctrines of proportionality and balancing.

Seminars and other Events
Seminars and panel discussions offer the opportunity for leading academics and practitioners to share their recent research on a wide range of themes and topics with the University of Hong Kong’s faculty and students, as well as the wider Hong Kong community. Similar to CCPL conferences, workshops and roundtables, these CCPL events are generally open to the public and free of charge. In 2018-19, in addition to the 7 major conference discussed above, CCPL hosted 32 Seminars, Panel Discussions, Workshops and other Academic Events. These were organized and led by CCPL-affiliated colleagues and many resulted from research projects housed in the Centre. The Human Rights Seminar Series was co-hosted by the Human Rights Hub in the Faculty of Law.

Knowledge Exchange Projects

Evaluation of the Impact of Research on the rights of LGBTIQ+ (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Intersex, Queer) people in Hong Kong

Project Coordinator: Kelley Loper
Project Team Members: Elizabeth Lui, Vivian Kwok

Summary:

The proposed project aimed to evaluate and strengthen the impact of research on the rights of LGBTIQ+ (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Intersex, Queer) people in Hong Kong produced by members of the Faculty of Law, including scholars affiliated with CCPL. It identified impact on relevant policy and law reform debates, strategic litigation in Hong Kong, including advocacy by civil society, and also explored ways to enhance ongoing impact by collecting feedback from and identifying resource gaps with various stakeholders.

Human Rights Hub Website (https://law.hku.hk/hrhub)

Project Coordinator: Kelley Loper
Project Team Members: Lindsay Ernst, Karen Kong, Lili Ullmann, Lydia Choi, Shelley Leung

Summary:

The Human Rights Hub website project identified, compiled, and disseminated information on human rights related research, knowledge exchange, and teaching and learning, including human rights experiential learning, in the Faculty of Law. It aimed to highlight the Faculty’s significant strengths in the human rights field, make this work more accessible to non-academic communities, and thus encourage collaboration and enhance local, regional and global impact.

Project Coordinator: Kelley Loper

Project Team Members: Lindsay Ernst, Shelley Leung

Summary:

The project aimed to strengthen dissemination of research output and legal and advocacy resources relating to disability rights, especially the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD), to the wider community and disability rights advocates in China, Hong Kong and Taiwan in particular. It translated existing materials on the previous Disability Rights Resource Network (DRRN) website from English to Chinese and incorporated new materials based on a survey of the needs of advocates in these three jurisdictions.

Research Report on Support in Hong Kong for Same-sex Couples’ Rights: July 2018
A research report issued by CCPL shows that Hong Kong public opinion on same-sex couples’ rights has changed significantly in recent years. For example, now over half of Hong Kong people support same-sex marriage. Available at: http://www.law.hku.hk/ccpl/wp-content/uploads/2018/07/Change%20Over%20Time%20Paper%20English%20(3%20July%20Final%20for%20Distribution).pdf.

Submission to the United Nations Committee on the Elimination of all Forms of Racial Discrimination: July 2018
Dreams of Pakistani Children: In-depth conversations with 22 girls and 3 boys: April 2019

WSRC Convenor Puja Kapai launched her research report on Dreams of Pakistani Children: In-depth conversations with 22 girls and 3 boys, commissioned by the Zubin Foundation and funded by Plan International Hong Kong. The report was presented to the Secretary for Labour and Welfare and served as the basis for discussion with relevant stakeholders at the initial launch.

As the research findings show, practices, expectations and experiences of a sample of Pakistani girls in Hong Kong is indicative of challenges to their equal right to education, their developmental rights under the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the realization of their full potential towards a life they aspire to lead. The findings confirm that early engagement is seen as prevalent among Pakistani girls in Hong Kong. This sets them on course towards a trajectory where they are expected to abandon their dreams to study or work in later years of their life and work towards the fulfilment of their family’s expectations for their marriage and building a suitable home life.

The research findings provide detailed insights into the different contexts and factors which constrain the dreams and aspirations of Pakistani girls in Hong Kong at different stages of their lives. In particular, it highlights key areas for support and the provision of opportunities and incentives for all related Hong Kong stakeholders to address the gendered impact of the operative norms and structures on Pakistani girls, with the hope of identifying a multi-disciplinary approach to enhancing the prospects for equality of access to education and other forms of empowerment of Pakistani girls.

Separate but equal? Same-sex couples’ unequal access to public housing in Hong Kong and its fiscal implications: May 2019

CCPL research found that due to the discriminatory nature of public housing policy, LGB individuals are subjected to an economic penalty of HKD233,539. Findings of the study also suggest that the impugned policy is counter-productive to distributing public housing fairly and efficiently.
